I.

As the air quality gets worse and worse, people are trying to make the air clean and clear. Here is what we can do to help. First, ride a vehicle with two wheels, like a scooter, a motorcycle or a bicycle, because it uses less fuel. An electric scooter is even better. What’s more, take buses or the MRT. If you need to drive a car, you can get a hybrid car because it uses both electricity and fuel. You can also carpool with others. By sharing a car with others, you don’t need to drive your own car. This way it will reduce the use of fuel and help the air better.

fuel 燃料 electric 電的 hybrid car 油電混合車
electricity 電

II.

The Day of the Dead is a big festival in Mexico. People celebrate it on the first day of November as a way to remember and celebrate the dead people in their family. Sometimes, they like to decorate the graves in the cemetery with skeletons in special costumes. Families take big meals to the cemetery, and then they light up candles and play music. Sometimes there are fireworks, too. People buy or make sugar skulls to decorate the graves of loved ones and to eat. For people in Mexico, skulls and skeletons are not scary at all. The Day of the Dead is a time for fun and happy celebrations.

There’s a similar festival in Thailand. It’s called Yi Peng. It usually falls in November, too. On the first day, there is a parade and people wear beautiful costumes. People make lanterns out of rice paper. They light small candles inside them. The warm air makes the lanterns go up into the sky. On the night of the festival, there are thousands of bright and beautiful lanterns in the sky. People say that the lanterns are taking away the bad things from their lives. People also decorate their homes and gardens with paper lanterns. On the last day, many beautiful fireworks light up the night sky. This festival is also a time to have fun.
